

The professional practice objective of chiropractic is to correct vertebral subluxations in a safe and effective manner. It is applicable to any patient who exhibits nerve interference regardless of the presence or absence of symptoms or disease. The Doctor of Chiropractic doesn't force the misaligned vertebrae back into place but will facilitate the body's correction of nerve interference.

During the adjustment, the subluxated vertebrae are unlocked and released from their misaligned positions. The body's inborn intelligence is called upon to shape the spine. When this happens, the vertebrae return to their proper alignment and the normal nerve supply is restored. This allows one to achieve maximum healing potential with a complete nerve supply.

During your chiropractic care session you may receive an x-ray, orthopedic exam, neurological exam and a physical exam as diagnostic tests. Goong Chiropractic Clinic uses specialized low radiation x-ray equipment to look at your spine. We also use x-rays to measure your genetic potential and your chronological age versus your actual age.

During your care you may receive laser therapy. Low Level Laser Therapy has shown the potential to repair damaged tissue and organs. It refers to the modality of applying a "low" energy or "low level" laser to tissue that stimulates cellular processes and boosts the body's ability to repair itself. Cold lasers are less than 1% as powerful as hot lasers and results are painless and produce little if any sensation. The laser emits light at the same speed the cells in the body do. It acts as a reset mechanism for the neurophysiology and energy meridians of the body. Since more energy is now available, the cell may utilize this fuel to function or operate more efficiently.

Our first goal with your care is symptomatic relief of any pain or discomfort.
